What past registrants are saying:	"This is valuable in providing guidance as I navigate trying to become successful as an academic surgeon. It is extremely beneficial to learn from those who have preceded me." "The course helped me to explore and learn about various research paths and basic overview of methods to help me better implement and improve upon my research career." "Provided a great foundation of how to start in the small picture of research projects as well as the big picture of a career."	"Very applicable at this early stage. Every lecture was useful and gave me insight into a different aspect of establishing my career as an academic surgeon." "Very valuable. I am just starting as a new attending and have been trying to figure out how to orient myself moving forward academically." "Invaluable. The information provided is something that is not openly or clearly discussed within my training program, and I appreciated taking one day out of my life to listen to the best advice and contemplate how to incorporate the advice into my career moving forward."

Hotel Information

The 2018 AAS Fall Courses does not secure a hotel group block for the courses. If you are attending the American College of Surgeons Clinical Congress immediately following the courses, hotel rooms can be booked through the ACS Clinical Congress web site: <https://www.facs.org/clincon2018/travel>

Otherwise, you can find a hotel room by visiting the Greater Boston Convention & Visitors Bureau web site: <https://www.bostonusa.com/hotels/>

This site will also provide general information on Boston to include ground transportation, local events, places to eat and much more.
